ATHLETICS LOSE TO THE ALL-STARS

Johnson Holds Champs Safe at Every Stage.

MACK'S TWIRLERS HIT HARD

Jimmy McAleer's Crew Capture the Opening Game of Series, 8 to 3.
Ty Cobb Not on Hand, but Will Play To-day—Quaker City Team Never Had a Chance to Win.

Special to the Washington Herald.
Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—The All-Americans picked by Jimmy McAleer, manager of the Washington team, gave the Athletics an object lesson to-day by easily winning the first game in the series by 8 to 3. The American League champions could not hit Walter Johnson, while the All-Americans batted Bender, Plank, and Combs at will.

Ty Cobb did not reach town in time to play against the Athletics. Ty was auto-mobilized to Philadelphia from Detroit to play in the series, but he met with an accident to his machine near Kingston, N. Y., which prevented him from reaching Philadelphia in time to get to the ball park.

The game scheduled for Philadelphia on Friday will be played in Washington at the request of the Washington public. The Capital City fans want to see Johnson pitch a game with a powerful team behind him, and with such a combination as is now representing the All-Americans, Manager McAleer suggested to Manager Mack to transfer Friday's game to the Capital. Mack has consented, and Johnson will have his chance to perform before his home folk backed up by a strong team.

Champs Score Twice.

The Athletics scored twice in the second. Baker singled through Elberfeld, and Davis was safe when Johnson fumbled his sacrifice. Murphy advanced the pair with his bunt. McInnis was spared by Harry Lord's fumble, and Baker crossed. Thomas sacrificed, Davis scoring. McBride tossed out Bender.

One out in the seventh, McInnis was saved by Elberfeld's wild throw. Thomas walked, and Combs hit to McBride, who fumbled. With the bases full, Hartel rapped to Johnson for a double play. In the ninth, Davis doubled, and McInnis' triple produced the Athletics' final count.

Kid Elberfeld Doubles.
The All-Stars scored in the second on Elberfeld's double and McBride's single. One out in the third, Milan singled. Harry Lord tied to left. Speaker singled to center. Milan and Speaker made a double steal. Milan scoring when Thomas chucked the ball wild. One out in the fourth, Stahl singled and was forced by McBride. The shortstopper stole second, and successive doubles by Street and Johnson put two aliens across. Plank was the new pitcher in this inning.

In the fifth, with one down, Speaker hit for three bases and came home on Elberfeld's single. Schaefer lined to Murphy, who doubled Elberfeld at first.

Combs ousted Plank from the knoll in the seventh, but was potted just as hard as his predecessor. Singles by Lord and Speaker, McBride's error, Stahl's pass, and McBride's double scored three more runs. That ended foreign run-getting.

NOTES OF THE GAME.
Washington players were very much in evidence.

Milan will be placed between Speaker and Cobb on Wednesday.

Jake Stahl pulled off a double play unassisted. He also handled eleven chances without an error.

McBride and Elberfeld were the demon sluggers, and led all the others with the stick, collecting three hits each.

Wait until Ty Cobb gets into the game to-morrow.

Five thousand fans parted with gate money to see the opening game yesterday.

Ed Walsh and Billy Sullivan will probably be the battery to-morrow.

Elberfeld, McBride, and Gaby Street are credited with errors, but the hitting of this trio more than made up for their errors.

Walter Johnson fanned only eight of the champions.

Hartel, O'Driscoll, and Collins could not get anything that even resembled a safe hit off Walter Johnson.

The All-Stars stole five bases on Lapp and Thomas, while only one is recorded off Gaby Street.

CORRIDEN DENIES LOAFING ON JOB

Says He Did Not Favor Lajoie in Sunday's Game.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—There is nothing to investigate, said Manager Jack O'Connor, of the St. Louis Browns to-day, when a reporter suggested to him that he might be an investigation of the manner in which Lajoie got eight hits in last Sunday's double-header here. "Of course, I never told Corriden or any other player on the team to extend himself when Lajoie was at bat," O'Connor said, answering a question. When asked what he thought of Corriden's playing on Lajoie's bunts Sunday, O'Connor summed Corriden, saying it was a question for Corriden to answer. "Of course I didn't lay down in Sunday's game," said Corriden. "I want to remain in baseball a few years, and wasn't going to get killed playing in on Lajoie, who, I know, is one of the hardest sluggers in the land." Corriden left for home to-night.

Brice Hoskins, sporting writer, in a published statement here to-day says: "We are constrained to ask why did Corriden play so much further back on Sunday than he did during the previous games. As to O'Connor's statement that the Browns were really pulling for Cobb, we are in a position to assert, if such were the case, some of the boys must have switched at the eleventh hour. We have never heard O'Connor express himself on the subject before, and accept his statement."

TY COBB TALKS OF LARRY'S CASE

Will Not Protest, but Refuses to Congratulate.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Ty Cobb arrived here to-night, and when interviewed said: "I haven't a word to say about the game in St. Louis Sunday, nor am I going to utter one syllable of reproach against Lajoie. I didn't see the double-header and am unable to say whether the accusations are based on fact or not. Neither do I intend to protest to the American League that I was robbed out of the championship. I simply am in ignorance of what took place and will leave the comment to the newspapers."

"I am extremely sorry that there should be the slightest hint of taint on the 1910 batting championship. I knew that Lajoie and myself were having a hard fight for the honor and I hoped that there would not be the smallest suspicion of scandal on the winner's record, for that man Lajoie or myself. I had hoped to be in a position to congratulate Lajoie over his achievement and doubtless he would have congratulated me had I been successful."

"As matters now stand, I shall not congratulate Lajoie if the official figures verify the unofficial percentages and show that he has won the championship. But at the same time, I won't make any accusation reflecting on Lajoie, his percentage, or the members of the St. Louis team. I am not the type of man to raise a holler, unless I know what I am about."

"I deeply regret the whole incident. Rumors like those coming from St. Louis do the game irreparable harm."

AUTOMOBILE NEWS.
Mr. Emerson, of Emerson & Orme, has as guests George H. Strout, sales manager of the Apperson Auto Company; Harry Jones, Philadelphia manager; Harris M. Hanshue, the celebrated Apperson driver, of California, and pilot of the Apperson cars in the Vanderbilt and Fairmount Park races, and Mr. Ferguson, his mechanic.

Emerson & Orme expect the arrival of a carload of 1911 Apperson cars in a few days. These are new models of the close-coupled body type.

C. E. Wheeler, general Eastern agent for the Owen Motor Car Company, is in Washington, having arrived with the Owen demonstrating car to be used by Miller Bros., the Washington agents.

The Zell Motor Car Company report the delivery of a Chalmers "30" roadster, 1911 model, to Anna Maud Milburn, and a 1911 Chalmers "30" toy tonneau to M. J. Luchs, of the real estate firm of Shannon & Luchs.

George Robertson, the recognized American auto champion, has quit the auto race track forever. During his few short years as a driver he has laid away the tidy sum of $35,000. He expects to take an agency for an automobile company.

Asa G. Candler, Jr., president of the Atlanta Automobile Association, is an extraordinarily good driver. He has been driving cars since they were invented, and is rated one of the top-notch road drivers of the South. Mr. Candler owns one grand racing machine, the Fiat "40," that has won races by the hundreds in Italy, France, and America. It is said by experts that the Fiat company never turned out a faster car for its size.

The Imperial Motor Company report the delivery of a forty-cylinder Chalmers & Lang electric coupe to H. A. Seymour, of this city.

If the Phils had to depend on their October receipts in Brooklyn and Boston for their preparation next spring, they wouldn't have enough money to train in a gymnasium.

McALEER'S ALL STARS TO PLAY HERE ON FRIDAY

Nationals' Manager Consents to Demands of Capital Fans—Killifer Not to Go—Other Gossip.

By WILLIAM PEET.
Washington fans will get a chance to see the Athletics and Manager Jimmy McAleer's all-star team in action here next Friday afternoon at National Park. Last Saturday the writer, in a talk with McAleer, asked the Nationals' boss if there were any chance for Washington fans to see these teams in action, and Manager Jim replied: "I will do my best to get Connie Mack to consent to switching one of the games to Washington."

The following wire was received by the writer last night: "The Athletics have consented to play the all-stars in Washington Friday, and I am going to pitch Walter Johnson. I hope all the fans will turn out, as we have a team that can beat anything in organized baseball."

The fact that these clubs are to perform before a local crowd simply means that Manager McAleer has insisted on the game to fulfill the demands of the Washington public, and the public has McAleer to thank, as Mack's men were very much opposed to taking the trip.

Many of the old-timers who have followed American League baseball since the circuit has been in evidence declare that if the All-Stars play the game of which they are capable, the Athletics will be lucky to get away with a single victory.

The story in an afternoon newspaper to the effect that Red Killifer will not be with the club is to be taken with a grain of salt. It is a safe bet that when the Nationals report for spring practice next March Killifer will be among those present. The sorrel top is certainly worth another trial and will surely get one.

Among those who contributed to the Walter Johnson fund was William H. Nash, a fireman at No. 3 truck house. Mr. Nash's name was inadvertently omitted in the list published in this paper Tuesday morning.

We are again reminded of that time-worn saying about closing the stable door after the horse has wandered away. The national baseball commission has thrown up its hands in horror over the doings in St. Louis on Sunday, when the St. Louis players presented Lajoie with a few base hits so that he could win an automobile.

Such a thing can never occur again, say these members of the court of baseball, because we will never permit the offering of a prize for the premier batter.

RUTGERS PUTS UP KICK.
Declares They Were Robbed of the Game at Annapolis Saturday.

It is likely that the Navy-Rutgers game, played at Annapolis last Saturday, will create a little furor in the central board of football game officers. Howard Gargan, whose excellent coaching has given Rutgers a high-class eleven, will write a letter to the central board, protesting against the refereeing of Tausig. Gargan appears to be justly angered, as his team clearly beat the navy. Last night he said:

"That score should have been Rutgers, 4; Navy, 0. Tausig's ruling that prevented us making our touchdown was absurd. Why after the game the Navy captain apologized to Capt. Smith, of Rutgers, for the decision. Here's how it happened: Robinson, the Rutgers end, picked up a Navy fumble about midfield and got away. McGovern, our other end, followed fifteen yards behind. Only one Navy player chased Robinson and he was twenty yards away. Robinson had planted the ball over the line when the Navy man overtook McGovern. To our surprise Tausig ruled that McGovern had held. The touchdown had been made and you couldn't find anybody who saw any holding. Tausig asked the umpires their backs on him. It's certainly tough when you beat a team of the Navy's caliber and an incompetent referee prevents your getting away with it."

PRACTICE AT GEORGETOWN
Bergins' Playing at End for Second Eleven Feature.

Sensation Sprung When the Second Team Holds 'Varsity to No Score—Dunn Missed.

Yesterday afternoon's practice on Georgetown field was the hardest since the A. & M. game, and incidentally one of the toughest scrimmages of the season took place between the scrubs and the 'varsity. For forty minutes the two elevens went at each other as if they meant blood, and during this time neither side was able to score a touchdown.

Dunn's unavoidable absence proved a great weakness to the 'varsity backfield, which could gain little distance in this way and bringing the full dangerously near the 'varsity goal line.

Bergins' defensive playing at end on the scrubs was the best seen on Georgetown field this year, as he nailed his man every time he came his way, and often for a considerable loss.

In the preliminary signal practice, Nielson shifted Bryant from tackle to full.
